

It is becoming increasingly clear that this FCC administration is misguided in its trust of the RBOCs to allow open access to their facilities. The proposed policies of this administration will lead to the further consolidation of telecom control into the hands of the RBOCs, and the slowing of broadband deployment.